

Privacy Policy

Thank you for visiting the City of Pullman Web sites and reviewing our Privacy Policy. Your privacy is one of our top priorities. We view this Privacy Policy as a privacy partnership between the City of Pullman and you, our valued customer. The following policy applies only to the use of the City of Pullman Web sites; pullman-wa.gov, pullmantransit.com, and neill-lib.org.

We seek to protect your privacy to the maximum extent possible. However, because some of the information that we receive through these Web sites is subject to the Washington State Public Records Law, and due to the nature of Internet communications, we cannot ensure absolute privacy. Information that you provide to us through these sites may be made available to members of the public under that law. This Privacy Policy is designed to explain the specific privacy protections we provide to you at our Web sites. This policy informs you of the information that we collect from you at this site, what we do with it, to whom it may be disseminated, and how you can access it. Based on this information, you can make an informed choice about your use of this site. You can maximize the benefits of your privacy partnership with the City of Pullman by making informed choices about whether to share personally identifiable information with us through these sites.

Acceptance of this Privacy Policy

By using these websites you agree to the terms and conditions of this Privacy Policy. Without limitation of the foregoing, you understand and agree that (1) the information collected by the City of Pullman may be stored indefinitely, (2) the City of Pullman may store, access and use the information in any jurisdiction, including jurisdictions in which the privacy laws may be different and less protective than those in your home jurisdiction and (3) the City of Pullman will not share any information submitted to these sites with any other organization or individual. Please do not use these websites if you do not agree to the terms and conditions of this Privacy Policy.

Changes to this Privacy Policy

The City of Pullman reserves the right to change this Privacy Policy at any time but will not do so without posting the modified Privacy Policy on our websites. We encourage you to review our privacy policy whenever you visit our websites to make sure you understand how your information will be used.

What information does the City of Pullman automatically collect about you and how is it used? When you visit our websites, we automatically collect some basic information about your computer as part of the software operation of our website. The type of information we collect includes:

Does The City of Pullman share the information with anyone?

Unless a user consents to such distribution, the City of Pullman will not sell, lease, or give away personally identifiable information to other governments, organizations, or private businesses within the limits of the law.

It's important to know the law, as state and federal laws place a special burden on public entities such as the City of Pullman to assure the public's right to access public records and information. Public information (as opposed to private information) involves information about activity that is regulated. For example, in purchasing a birth certificate online, a person's name and birth date is public information (because births are regulated by the state), but the fact that you bought it with a certain credit-card number is not (because means of purchasing is not regulated). Furthermore, public information would include correspondence with other agencies, including e-mails and website comments about shared processes, policies, activities and other types of general correspondence. However, certain subjects fall under exemptions of the state's public disclosure act.

For details, see Revised Code of Washington 42.56.070 , Documents and indexes to be made public," and the federal "Freedom of Information Act"

Outside of legal requirements and extreme emergencies, information on the City of Pullman website will not be released to anyone without the consent of the user.

Disclaimer Notice

The City of Pullman makes no claims, promises or guarantees about the accuracy, currency, completeness, or adequacy of the contents of these websites and expressly disclaims liability for errors and omissions in its contents. In the event of a conflict between this Privacy Policy and the Public Records Act or other law governing the disclosure of records, the Public Records Act or other applicable law will control.

No warranty of any kind, implied, express or statutory, including but not limited to the warranties of non-infringement of third party rights, title, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose and freedom from computer virus, is given with respect to these websites or its links to other Internet resources. Although we have put in place security systems (as described in this Policy) that are designed to prevent unauthorized disclosure of your personally identifiable information, due to the nature of Internet technologies we cannot provide firm assurances as to the security of this information, and expressly disclaim any such obligation.

Site Privileges

You agree to refrain from activity that imposes an unreasonable burden on the Sites, and we reserve the right, in our discretion, to limit the order quantity on any item and /or to refuse service to any customer who violates these provisions.

Choice of Law and Jurisdiction

This Sites are controlled and operated by the City of Pullman from its location in Pullman, Washington. This Policy shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Washington, without regard to any conflict of law provisions. Any dispute arising under this Policy shall be resolved exclusively by the state or federal courts sitting in Whitman County, Washington.
